Aaro LED Ceiling Light by DCW éditions

The Aaro ceiling light was designed by Simon Schmitz from his need to create something with fluid motion. The ceiling lamp has a sphere which allows the light to rotate around, being perfectly balanced as both arms work symbiotically and gracefully. The integrated LED light source sits subtly in the small disc-like lampshade, emitting a downward directed glow.

The Aaro ceiling lamp comes in a black finish, being able to seamlessly slip into any type of design scheme. The ceiling light is perfect to use as a reading or task light, thanks to its flexibility and mobility and will serve best when hung over tables and surfaces for maximum use. A modern, intriguing and agile LED ceiling light, perfect for homes and work spaces.
