Studio Toer drew inspiration from the twilight, that mystical time between day and night on a summer evening, when sparks of light around you create this wondrous moment of serenity. The designers managed to capture that moment in their latest creation, the Flock of Lights. The suspension brings small swarms of light into your home, creating a warm and poetic glow.

Studio Toer, based in the Netherlands, is known for pushing the technical and aesthetic limits in the design world. A suggestion of movement is always present in their designs. Creating innovative designs, Flock of Light is a true testament to their abilities; an artistic piece by day and a swarm of light by night. The light is made of brass cups and bronze wires, while the diffusers are made of semi-transparent polycarbonate.
