Artemide Miconos Ceiling Light

Artemide Miconos Ceiling Light uses a functional and balanced frame to hold the transparent diffuser in place, keeping the light source fully in view. Designed by Ernesto Gismondi, it turns this exposed construction into an ever-stylish and topical icon through its simple beauty.

The clear blown plate-glass diffuser does not soften the composition by hiding the bulb. Instead, it keeps the source central, while the brass and steel frame gives the ceiling fitting a clean, deliberate structure and allows the diffused and direct light to remain open and visible in the space.

Artemide Miconos Ceiling Light is available in Satin brass and Polished chrome. Its closer ceiling position makes it feel slightly more contained than the suspension version, while still keeping the same decorative presence and clear construction. Best suited for bedrooms, hallways, living spaces, and other interiors where a ceiling light can provide both direct light and a more visible focal point.
