Northern Birdy Swing Wall Light

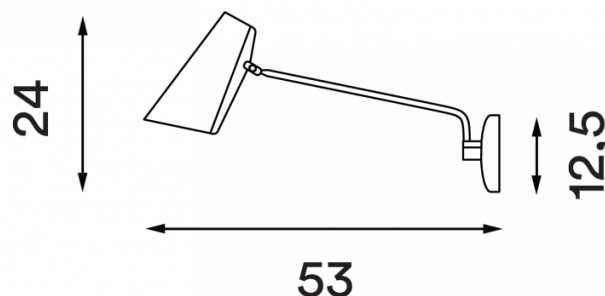

The Birdy Swing Wall Light is part of a modernistic lighting collection designed by Birger Dahl. Originally released in 1952, the collection was widely popular, with the table lamp being awarded the esteemed Golden Medal at the Milan Triennale. Northern re-launched the collection in 2013, taking care to preserve the original features that made it such a well-loved range. As well as the swing wall light, the collection also includes a table lamp, short wall light, and floor lamp.

The sleek and uncluttered design gives the Birdy Swing Wall Light its modernistic style, allowing it to blend seamlessly into contemporary interiors. Ideal for both residential and commercial spaces such as offices or restaurants. The adjustable head and directional lighting create perfect task lighting beside a coffee table or as a reading light beside a bed. Alternatively, install in a row to illuminate a hallway or stairway. Available in a choice of black, brass, or steel finishes.

Please Note: The Birdy Swing Wall Light comes with a cable and plug as standard, so it must be installed near a socket. The light can be hardwired by a qualified electrician and is supplied with a semi-transparent cover piece for the wire hole.
